The Bible Society's The Bible Course

We asked for help in funding the purchase of user manuals for this course, which is designed as a series of videos outlining the structure, content and message of the Bible.

We have run one course so far with a group of eight people. It was very well received. Each person receives the manual as a gift. The manual reinforces the content of the videos and also provides questions and preparation for the following videos.
It is given as a gift to the receiver, and we are grateful for the funding to enable this.

Those who came along to the course found it both educational and encouraging. The series never lost sight of the golden thread of salvation that runs through the Bible.

We plan to run again in the autumn. The course is largely self-contained, and does not need much more than a host to offer their home as a venue. Our hope is that new people will open their homes to host the series.

--

With Blessings,

Paul Laughlin WTandW